Brief note on visit to Grotte de carrière de Journiac.

Note on exploration of Trou de la Louve. This cavity was used as depot for dynamite during the second World War. The cave is made up of several galleries. One of these shows evidence of an older work of unobstruction. The main gallery has engravings made by a metal point, probably medieval or later.