tourism became in France a mode of economic recovery during the First World War transformation of tourism into an industry tourism a way of revenge against Germany; diverting American money into France rather than Germany explosion of tourist locations