1,2,3. La Ferrassie (SDM0001, SDM0002, SDM0003)

- published by Peyrony 1934 in La Ferrassie
- summarizes 30+ years of work
- archaic flakes (Tayacien)
- some Mousterian of ancient Acheulean tradition
- Peyrony & Capitan found 5 layers
- found Acheulean, Mousterian, Lower, Middle, and Upper Aurignacian
- 17 September Peyrony found a tibia & femur between Acheulean and Mousterian
- Capitan, Boule, Cartailhac, & Breuil used trenches to uncover entire skeleton
- bison, deer, horse, & reindeer debris found along with worked silex and quartz of lower Mousterian
- lithostratigraphic revisions
- needed to understand human and environmental processes of organic material deposition
- indicated a periglacial semi-arid environment at the LGM
- 1917 Peyrony had Belvès digging at the site
- Peyrony dug the grand abri here from 1918-1922
- found a Neanderthal fetus 1920 and young Neanderthal child 1921
- Peyrony and Capitan bought 250 meters of land on the 9th of February 1913 for the deposition of the deblais at la Roche du Couyou
- journal of Peyrony at the museum of Les Eyzies
- Capitan bought la Ferrassie and then donated it to the state upon his death
- BSHAP Laville 2008
- Delporte dug between 1968-1973
- Peyrony found foetus fingers in a small depression
- only evidence of depression are in two drawings done by Peyrony
- 5th skeleton published July 1920>no mention of depressions
- Peyrony’s publications do not mention monticules but some letters do; not all drawings have monticules in them
- appears Peyrony’s 1934 drawing copies his 1924 drawing and notes rather than looking at the actual profile
- several of Peyrony’s later statements contradict drawing he made in 1934
- 1909 photographe seems to show “monticules”
- perhaps cryoturbation formed them
- BSHAP 2007 Laville
- skeleton La Ferrassie 1 recovered Sept 17 1909 by Peyrony and Raveau
- Maureille and Van Peer decide they are intentional fossa created at the same time
- Maureille and Van Peer 1998 Paleo
- Capitan and Peyrony indicated Chatelperronian, Aurignacian, and Gravettian
- found several pieces with painting on them that they determine are from the former ceiling
--also found Aurignacian statuette
--many engravings found
--Capitan and Peyrony RA 1921
--based on analysis and comparison probably not a statuette
--Prost L'Anthropologie 1971
--Peyrony first visited La Ferrassie in August 1896
--made up of 3 gisements: extreme left a small abri with Mousterian occupation
--middle a cave almost entirely excavated with an unexplored souterrain
--to the right>the grand abri
--cave explored by Larclause around 1890
--cave also explored by E. Riviere several years later
--Peyrony worked at the cave in 1896
--quarry opened at the grand abri
--Capitan and Peyrony explored until 1922
--Peyrony Prehistoire 1934
