Much of our research takes place online through our joint virtual lab, PANDA, or the Princeton and NYU Discoveries in Action Lab. Marjorie Rhodes, in collaboration with Sarah-Jane Leslie at Princeton (see Research Collaborators), lead the PANDA lab. All of CDSC's online research is considered part of both CDSC and Panda.

- For an overview of the systems we use to put our studies online, please see Online Programs
- For a step-by-step overview of the in-person --> online adaptation for studies, please see Study Conversion Process
- For an explanation of our recruitment process for online studies, please see Online Recruitment
- To see a list of frequently asked questions about our online research process, please see FAQ (& A)