Volume 45, Number 3 (2017)

Awkward Appendages: Comic Umbrellas in Nineteenth-Century Print Culture
Maria Damkjær

A Latter-Day Mystery: Thomas Carlyle and Eugène Sue
Alexander Hugh Jordan

A Breath of Fresh Air: Eco-Consciousness in Mary Barton and Jane Eyre
Margaret S. Kennedy

A Few Words about Miss Mary Holmes
Christine Kyprianides

Letty Garth’s Little Red Book: “Rumpelstiltskin,” Realism, and Middlemarch
Lee O’Brien

George Eliot’s Evangelical Insight: Close Contact and Realizing Views
Erin Nerstad

Convenient Cosmopolitanism: Daniel Deronda, Nationalism, and the Critics
Aleksandar Stević

Working-Class Subjectivity in Margaret Harkness’s A City Girl
Tabitha Sparks

“The Additional Attraction of Affliction”: Disability, Sex, and Genre Trouble in Barchester Towers
Clare Walker Gore

Abnormal Narratives: Disability and Omniscience in the Victorian Novel
Clayton Tarr

REVIEW ESSAY

Victorian Ecocriticism for the Anthropocene
Daniel Williams